45 Day Expo at Exhibition Grounds from Nov. 5

• Karnataka Exhibition Authority to hold meeting tomorrow to finalise number of stalls • Amusement Park attracting large crowd

The amusement park run by a Mangaluru-based Co. at Dasara Exhibition Grounds attracted large crowds last evening. The park, which opened on Oct. 16, closes on Oct. 31.

Mysuru, Oct. 24 (MTY& BNR)- Mysuru city, the Heritage Capital of the State, is known to record highest footfall of tourists not only from across the State or country but also from across the globe, especially during the last quarter of the year annually.

REASON: The extravaganza that Mysuru Dasara brings in — Jumboo Savari, Cultural Events, Dasara Exhibition, Aahara Mela and much more.

However, since the COVID pandemic took over the world, the major attraction of the season, Jumboo Savari was restricted to the Palace premises and cultural programmes were limited so also Dasara Exhibition, another crowd-puller, which was completely stalled.

Seeing some positive signs of reduced number of COVID cases in the district and relaxation in COVID guidelines, the District Administration this year increased the number of cultural programmes. However, to avoid crowd, the Dasara Exhibition was not resumed.

To make up with the loss in terms of revenue to the Authority and in terms of entertainment and fun for public, the Karnataka Exhibition Authority (KEA) is all set to organise a 45-day exhibition starting from Nov. 5 at the Dasara Exhibition Grounds.

DDPI Ramachandraraje Urs told Star of Mysore yesterday that the DC has issued instructions to all Schools to start classes for 1st to 5th standard students with all COVID-19 safety and precautionary measures in place.

Pointing out that classes will be held only for half-day (10 am to 1.30 pm) from Oct.25 to 29 and from 8 am till 11.40 am on Oct.30, he said that full-scale classes will begin from Nov.2, during which classes will be held from 10.30 am to 4.30 pm.

EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

Social media may have its benefits. But being unregulated, it has its fair share of ills that manifest itself in the population, especially among the younger ones. Recent reports of Facebook's Instagram photo-sharing app affecting the mental health of millions of young users, is a wake-up call for authorities in India to sit up, take note and act. Facebook's own researchers have reportedly found Instagram toxic, particularly to teenage girls. What was found was that social media like Instagram pressurise youngsters towards perfection, more so in the realm of looks and a better lifestyle. A feeling of desperation sets in if they find themselves wanting, which in turn leads to depressive and suicidal thoughts.

Unfortunately, no thorough studies have been conducted in India to estimate the impact of social media like Instagram on the younger generation. This is despite India having an estimated 80 million Instagram users with a penetration of 23.1 percent, according to global digital marketing agencies. More worryingly, with 346 million smartphone owners, the country has a smartphone user penetration of 25.3 percent, which means many are on the verge of taking to social media without realising its impact on mental health. That makes it imperative to have a proper mechanism to make youngsters aware of the ill-effects of its uncontrolled use.

Dr. Mysore Manjunath,
violin maestro par excellence

Sir,

The moderator Rao R. Sharath in conversation with violin maestro Dr. Mysore Manjunath was extremely riveting for it brought succinctly his genius, which exhibited his unique musical talent by his virtuoso performance in many renowned musical platforms across the world (SOM dated Oct.16).

There is another facet of his personality that he is gifted with the power of articulation to expound the nuances of the music that few can convey so effectively. Whenever I attended the violin concert of the duo Manjunath-Nagaraj they invariably end the concert with 'Krishna Nee Begaane Baro' which literally makes the audience to burst out, soaking them in tears of joy to convey the power of music, that it is impossible to be silent.

The incident at Princeton when all the Western violinists were quick to catch the message and came dressed in dhoti and sat on the floor next day during the workshop is a powerful reflection of how silently Dr. Manjunath showed that tradition embellishes the quality of music.

Another distinctive feature of the eastern classical music and in this case the Karnatak music as distinct from the Western is its scope for improvisation to exhibit the genius of the individuality.

One more sterling character of Dr. Manjunath is despite many high profile musicians persuading him to settle down in Chennai if his music has to flower has been dispelled by his steadfast adherence to stay back in Mysuru and thus the city has become famous because of him.

It is not without reason that Mysuru is called the city of culture and nobody calls Chennai as city of culture. In fact it was DVG who had to convince Rajaji as to why the South Indian music is called Karnatak music tracing the heritage to Purandaradasa. We must really appreciate Dr. Manjunath for his decision.

Mysuru Literature Festival 2021

Thought-provoking discussion
on Spirituality, Quantum Physics & Vedanta

Mysuru, Oct. 24- The 5th edition of the Mysuru Literature Festival's second virtual session entered the second week with a thought-provoking discussion on Spirituality, Ancient Indian Knowledge, Quantum Physics and Vedanta by the well-known author Ashwin Sanghi with writer Anuja Chandramouli.

The Curator and Director of Mysuru Literature Festival Shubha Sanjay Urs introduced the guest speakers while Trustee Thankam Panakal welcomed the authors and viewers.

Anuja began by declaring that she is a fan-girl of Ashwin's books and called him a brilliant and charming person. In turn Ashwin called Anuja as a combination of sugar and butter, who can grill him to bring out good answers.

The first question was about 'Spirituality and Science', both being considered as two opposing factors in today's India and name calling of those who incline towards Spirituality as "sanghis' or right-wing people and those who cheer Science as liberals.

Ashwin declared that India has always been a land which accommodated plurality. The word liberal comes from the word 'liberalis' which means to be free; so when there is freedom then there will be varied points of view.

He opined that in post-independent India some people became the guardians of history for upholding their own political objectives. Like one wears a 3D glass to view a movie so that the points of view merge, in the same way we must allow different ideas to merge and celebrate plurality of thoughts, he said.

"Yesterday's politics is today's history and today's politics will become tomorrow's history," he simplified.

To answer a question from Anuja about the ancient Indian concept of Brahman and how he relates it to Quantum Physics, Ashwin quoted Heisenberg and Bohr and reiterated that the concept of Quantum Physics which deals with any particle form changing into wave form, had been thought about in the Upanishads when soul and physical body could actually be just different forms of the same "one."

Scientists try to silence their intuitive mind and only work with their rational mind and the spiritual people silence their rational mind and work only with their intuitive mind, he said with a bit of regret because according to him, both should be working together.

For a question regarding the concept of Ardhanareeshwara, Ashwin said that ancient India defines entities as "Neti Neti Neti"; that which is not. Like Shiva is what is not Shakti, Darkness is what is not Light and Death is what is not Life but the two entities are not the opposites.

He insisted that it is the responsibility of the generation of young Indians to be balanced and not completely discard all our ancient wisdom. For example, we have the concepts of shoonyata, cataract surgery etc. Not having a balanced approach could end up in 'ideological extremism,' he said.

When Anuja asked him about the reason for the obsession of ancient seekers to achieve immortality and also to acquire endless gold through alchemy, she also laughingly added the modern-day greed for chocolates and fried food. Ashwin went along with her mood to mention his whiskey greed!

On a serious note, he gave examples of terracotta soldiers of China and Egyptian pyramids to show that all humans in ancient times were seeking immortality.

Asked about the challenges in writing, he said that he writes commercial fiction and hence it is a challenge to keep the denser ideas within the commercial limits and to write stories which can be visualised easily.

He spoke about twitter and other social media where ideas are thrown about in short versions and that we don't pay attention to nuances. We need to slow down and listen to nuances to understand fellow humans, he felt.

Being a very articulate speaker and a person of varied views Ashwin spoke about a gamut of subjects like veganism, climate change, cruelty to animals, tantric way of worshipping and the hypocrisy of economic might. Finally, he said that the best to prescribe is not to prescribe anything at all.

He summarised his books as stories which educated, entertained and enlightened.

Social harmony must be the main focus of RSS, says MP Sreenivasa Prasad

Veteran RSS Sanghachalak M. Venkataramu and his wife Bhagyamma, who were felicitated at a programme in city yesterday, are seen with Suttur Seer Sri Shivarathri Deshikendra Swamiji, Chamarajanagar MP V. Sreenivasa Prasad, RSS Sarkaryavah Dattatreya Hosabale and others.

Mysuru, Oct. 24 (PM&DM)- Regretting that inequality, indiscrimination and untouchability still persists in our society, Chamarajanagar MP V. Sreenivasa Prasad said that the ultimate goal of RSS (Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh) should be to bring about social harmony in the country.

He was speaking after releasing senior RSS leader M. Venkataramu's (Ma. Venkataramu) felicitation volume titled 'Saamarasyada Sahrudayi Ma. Venkataramu' at the felicitation programme jointly organised by M. Venkataramu Abhinandana Samithi and Pralaksha Charitable Trust at Senate Bhavan in Manasagangothri here yesterday.

Maintaining that our society was lacking in social harmony and the society is mired in social evils such as untouchability and illiteracy, Sreenivasa Prasad said that RSS workers should strive for the prosperity of even the last person in the society.

Recalling a recent incident where a Dalit couple at a village in Koppal district was fined Rs. 25,000 just because their child entered a temple, the MP opined that though this may sound as a natural one for upper castes, the entire Dalit community can feel the trauma of such a humiliation. As such, RSS workers should work towards realising the dreams of Swami Vivekananda and also ensure that every individual is respected in the society.

Recalling his childhood association with Venkataramu, when the present Ashokapuram was then known as 'AK Puram', Sreenivasa Prasad said they both studied together starting from Shishuvihara till Lower Secondary School and they also worked as activists of Vidyarthi Parishat and RSS.

"I left RSS in 1972 after entering politics. While I am a short-tempered man, Venkataramu is known as a calm and cool tempered man. Venkataramu's felicitation volume has 93 articles, of which he has written one. Though we grew in the RSS together, the circumstances in which we both lived and the atmosphere in which top RSS leaders like Dattatreya Hosabale and Su. Ramanna came up is in sharp contrast," Prasad pointed out.

Asserting that RSS is one of the most disciplined organisations in the world, the MP said that some leaders criticise it for political reasons and it is not necessary to heed to those criticisms.

RSS Sarkaryavah (General Secretary) Dattatreya Hosabale, who delivered the keynote address, said that though the RSS does not promote felicitation programmes, today's programme has been organised out of honour and respect for the service rendered by Venkataramu.

Recalling Venkataramu's association with the RSS for decades, Hosabale said that the youths should work for the growth of the country and welfare and well-being of the society.

Stressing on the need for the younger generation to follow the ideals of iconic personalities such as Ramakrishna Paramahamsa, Swami Vivekananda and M. Venkataramu, he called upon the people to lead a principled and purposeful life.

Recalling the services rendered by Venkataramu to the RSS, Hosabale said that the veteran RSS leader worked silently and out of glare of publicity, for the welfare of the society.

Senior RSS Pracharak S. Ramanna (Su.Ramanna) in his address, said that no one should be ashamed to say that he/she is a Hindu.

Maintaining that RSS is a Hindu organisation working towards bringing about harmony in the Hindu society, Ramanna said it is however regretful to note that the foolish behaviour and attitude of some Hindu leaders had tarnished the image of the Hindu society to some extent.

Asserting that there is nothing wrong in Hindutva, he said that the RSS should strive for filtering out wrongs in leaders, which under the present circumstances is a national need.

Arguing that harmony is keen for Hindu organisation, Ramanna observed that the community leaders should step in whenever any lack of harmony and unity emerges.

The Felicitation Volume Chief Editor Dr. V. Ranganath said that Venkataramu celebrated his 74th birthday and entered his 75th year on Mar.4 this year, when it was planned to bring out this felicitation volume then. But it could not be done due to COVID crisis and the time has come now for the release of the volume, he said.

M. Venkataramu and his wife Bhagyamma were feted on the occasion. Suttur Mutt Seer Sri Shivarathri Deshikendra Swamiji graced the occasion.

RSS leader V. Nagaraj, Abhinandana Samithi President Dr. Vaman Rao Bapat, Vice-President and former MLC Thontadarya, noted Industrialist Jagannath Shenoy and a host of RSS leaders were present.

Wild tusker destroys railway barricades, enters villages near Nagarahole

Forest staff burst crackers, drive elephant back to forest

Hunsur, Oct. 24 (Raghu, Hanagod Mahesh&KS)- A wild tusker has destroyed the railway barricades installed near Nagapura bordering Nagarahole Reserve Forest and entered Bharathawadi and Veeranahosahalli villages causing tense moments yesterday morning.

The tusker, after entering Bharathawadi, has destroyed ginger and pumpkin crops grown in the field of Girish and Shashikala Ramanna and made its way into Veeranahosahalli after being chased by the villagers and destroyed the compound wall of the house belonging to Chowdamma and broke the wall of the cow shed injuring a cow. The tusker has also destroyed the compound wall of the residential quarters of Veeranahosahalli Forest staff and the gate.

As the railway barricades were destroyed by the tusker, it made way for other wild elephants and a total of nine elephants had entered the human habitat. The Forest Department personnel, who immediately swung into action, drove the elephants back into the forest but the wild tusker had stayed put at the wood lot stored near Nagapura School.

Finally, additional Forest staff, who arrived at the spot, burst crackers and managed to drive the tusker back to the forest through Veeranahosahalli main gate with the help of villagers.

Veeranahosahalli Range Forest Officer (RFO) Naman Narayana Nayak, DRFOs Chandresh and Dwarkanath and others took part in the operation.

It may be recalled that on Oct. 21 morning, a wild tusker that had entered into the Tibetan settlement from the Nagarahole National Park from Sollepura area under Veeranahosahalli Range and camping deep inside banana and jowar plantations since the last two days, was spotted eating crops near a wooded area and villagers gathered to drive it back to the jungle.

They formed groups and began shouting and pelting stones at the tusker. The pachyderm was driven to the forest through Hosa Penjalli area of the Tibetan camp.

The tusker had already destroyed most of the plantation and went on a rampage as it saw people around. Villagers alerted the Forest Department but none of the officers and staff bothered to visit the area immediately.

But when the Forest staff arrived after some time, they rushed to the spot and took over the task of driving the tusker back.

Mysuru, Oct. 24 (RKB&DM)- A five-day art expo began at Bharani Art Gallery in Vivekanandanagar here this morning. The exhibition has been organised marking the 27th anniversary of the Gallery, which features "Creation-II (Srishti-II)" series of Contemporary Abstract paintings of senior Artist N.B. Kaverappa, who is the Founder-Chief Convenor of the Gallery.

Speaking after inaugurating the exhibition, Dr. P. Prakash, Professor of Psychology, Christ University, Bengaluru, said that any art will remain incomplete if it is not properly understood or savoured by art lovers.

Noting that one should see the good in all artworks, he opined that a true love for art is vital for discovering the concept and intent behind each artwork.

Pointing out that one needs to have some art background to fully enjoy paintings and other art works, Dr. Prakash said that this expo, organised after a gap of more than a year due to COVID pandemic, provides an insight into contemporary abstracts, for which N.B. Kaverappa has taken great pains for making them.

K.B. Ganapathy, Founder-Editor of Star of Mysore and Mysuru Mithra, who presided, said that it is very difficult to develop arts, literature and culture.

Observing that one truly needs to have God's grace for doing this, he said that the gift of God is vital in the making of an artist.

Pointing out that N.B. Kaverappa has been doing yeoman service for arts by organising such expos in his art gallery, K.B. Ganapathy observed that the Kannada and Culture Department should take enterprising artists to Galleries around the world, so that they can get ideas and experience of the changing art scenes in the world.

He called upon the people to visit the free art gallery at least once to appreciate the Contemporary Abstracts.

L. Shivalingappa, senior sculptor and Founder of Mysore Art Gallery, in his address, said that the artworks in the expo can be best seen and understood through the inner eye.

Maintaining that the expo takes one to the world of 'Contemporary Abstracts', he opined that a foresight is needed before any creation and also vice-versa. Lauding Kaverappa for his Contemporary Abstract works which came out during the COVID pandemic, he said that the expo provides a feast to art lovers.

M. Chandrashekar, President, Kannada Sahitya Kalakoota, said that it is important to promote and honour artists. Lauding Bharani Art Gallery for its services to arts, he said that big and permanent art galleries on the lines of the one in western countries should come up in Mysuru. There is no doubt that such a step will be big inspiration for all artists from every form, he added.

The expo also features 25 new paintings with different themes in Creation-II series such as Navarasas, the bond between, life floats, the conflicts before freedom, the five elements, serenity unfolded, the flow, all from nothing, the truth, etc. The art expo will be open on till Oct. 28 between 11 am and 7 pm.

Over a cup of evening Tea

By Dr. K. Javeed Nayeem, MD

An Unforgiving Raja Marga and an Unrepentant Administration!

Just a few days ago, even as our annual Dasara festivities came to an end, SOM published a front-page report which said that the ornate stone balustrades that had been erected along our so-called Raja Marga of dubious fame in our city, had collapsed in not less than fifty-seven places. This periodic collapse of portions of the very expensively fabricated granite balustrades has been an ongoing process and it began even as the work of erecting them was still underway!

This speaks of how ill-conceived this over hundred crore rupee project was and how shoddily and hastily the work was done by an unholy nexus of politicians, bureaucrats and engineers, all hand in glove with one another, only to make a quick buck. And, this they did at the expense of helpless citizens, some of whom cried themselves hoarse that the whole project was completely flawed and therefore unnecessary to beautify a city that was only crying for some much-needed attention to preserve the beauty that it already had.

I was one among them, having written two full length articles, more than a decade ago, about how very impractical the whole exercise was and why it should have been shelved before starting it, instead of being executed at great cost only to be abandoned midway as was done most unceremoniously. The result is that huge heaps of the debris of these crumbled stone balustrades can today be seen at the MCC Zonal Office near Pathrakartara Bhavan off Thyagaraja Road.

Granite, as most people know, is no doubt a very hard kind of stone but it is also extremely brittle. While any structure built with it can bear an almost unlimited amount of load that is placed on it vertically, it is next to useless in resisting any fracturing force that is exerted on it sideways. This basic property of this very abundant and commonly used building material is something that has been known even to our most humble and completely unlettered artisans, who by their common sense alone, have left marvellous examples of their amazing engineering abilities over the centuries, starting right from prehistoric times. Forts and citadels across the world and free standing massive Hindu temples in particular, across our country and also at the Angkor Wat site in Indonesia, most of which have been erected without any kind of cementing material, tell us about the great skills of those who toiled to create them.

The fact that these structures are still standing erect and tall, even many centuries after they were built and left completely untended, bears silent testimony to both the abilities of our craftsmen and the inherent properties of the materials they worked with. But it is sad and very lamentable that our present-day engineers and artisans who are supposed have honed their skills at the temples of learning that our engineering colleges are, have only been able to sully their reputation by executing works of very inferior quality and short-lived durability.

This is not the case just with our Raja Marga balustrades but with almost every one of the works that have to do with the maintenance and upkeep of our cities and towns. All around us we see roadside storm water drains being made at great cost that have neither entrances or exits, let alone the right kind of gradient to let the rain water in. A very glaring example of this kind of purposeless engineering can be seen just outside our city, alongside the new Mysuru-Bengaluru Highway that is being gifted to us. Although I have stopped and spoken to them at length on many occasions and locations, no one working on them or supervising the work, was able to explain to me the physics of how the rainwater is expected to defy gravity and find an entry into them, thus completely defeating the only reason why they are being made! The basic flaw in their design has been pointed out to the authorities in charge of the work through many readers' letters to newspapers, supported by photographs but to no avail. This kind of shoddy work goes on unchecked and unhindered.

The SOM report about the crumbling Raja Marga balustrades with which I have started this article, also speaks of the extremely poor quality of the cement slabs used to cover our roadside drains across the city in general and around our Palace in particular. It is supported by pictures of their present pathetic state less than three years after they were laid. Here too, even as this work was being undertaken and the extremely thin and fragile looking slabs were still being unloaded from trucks around the Palace, I had written an article about how they would never be able to withstand for long the brunt they were supposed to bear. But this work too went on unhindered and although a citizen soon fell into a drain and got injured seriously, creating much public uproar, nothing was done to replace the slabs with stronger ones and that is why today we see innumerable gaping holes in our drains that pose a grave threat to public safety.

The rather recently constructed compound wall of our Bannimantap Grounds that is the venue of our famed Dasara Torch-Light Parade is another example of ill-conceived engineering. Even as it was being put up, I pointed out in an article that its design itself seemed very alien and far removed from the architectural character of the other heritage structures in and around our city and it would therefore stand out as a sore thumb.

I also pointed out that topping it with terracotta roofing tiles was a very bad idea because by being inherently very fragile and within reach of vandalising hands they would not last long. This is exactly what started happening in just a few months which left the wall looking much mauled and marred. The result is that now better sense has dawned on our authorities and the wall is being repaired and redone at great cost, with more durable plain cement. It is indeed sad that while a much jinxed and very unforgiving Raja Marga seems hell-bent on teaching a painful lesson to an unrepentant administration, it is only the citizens who seem destined to bear all the pain!

Don't you, like me, sometimes wonder why we always have the time and sense to do something all over again at great cost and effort but never the time and sense to do it right the first time?

MitraClip procedure succesfully performed on heart patient at Narayana Health City

The 54-year-old patient from Assam is considered to be the first one to have undergone the procedure in Karnataka

Bengaluru, Oct. 24- Amongst the cardiovascular diseases, heart failure is one of the leading causes of mortality in our country with severe mitral valve regurgitation being common among these patients. The Cardiology Department of Narayana Health City has brought a ray of hope for those suffering from severe mitral valve regurgitation by successfully performing MitraClip procedure, the latest treatment modality for treating mitral valve regurgitation.

The procedure was performed on a 54-year-old patient from Assam. The patient was leading a normal life until three months back when he started experiencing breathlessness on exertion. In fact, he couldn't keep pace with his colleagues during his morning walk and was suffering from easy fatigability.

His symptoms gradually progressed and he started having breathlessness even at rest, which made him and his family seek medical help. He visited a hospital in Assam, as he hails and resides there and was told that his heart functioning was low especially his Left Ventricle Ejection Fraction was below the normal range.

Left ventricle ejection fraction is the percentage of blood that is pumped out of the left ventricle (this ventricle is responsible for pumping blood to the brain, heart arteries, and the rest of the body) with each heartbeat. The ideal LV ejection fraction is 50% to 70% however, in the case of this patient it was 25% indicating a concern. He was also diagnosed to be having severe leakage of the mitral valve (Severe Mitral Regurgitation).

Mitral Valve Regurgitation is a condition wherein the valve that prevents the blood from flowing back to the left atrium is leaky. In severe mitral valve regurgitation, the blood doesn't flow forward into the aorta the way it should causing the heart to work harder and eventually leading to heart failure. He was advised a surgery. However, he and his family decided to come to Narayana Health City, Bengaluru, for a second opinion.

The patient was admitted at Narayana Health City. The team of doctors from Cardiac Sciences evaluated the patient in detail. The coronary angiogram showed no blocks and his ECG made him ineligible for Cardiac Resynchronization Therapy (Device Therapy), leading the doctors to explore newer treatment modalities. They evaluated the possibility of MitraClip.

Under the aegis of Dr. Satish Govind, Head of Non Invasive Cardiology, Narayana Health City, the team of doctors conducted a 2D Echo Doppler assessment which confirmed the eligibility of the patient for MitraClip. With the consent of the patient's family the procedure was performed on World Heart Day — Sept. 29, 2021.

In this procedure, the mitral valve of the patient was accessed using a thin tube called a catheter that is guided through a vein in the leg and a small clip is implanted in the mitral valve. The implant clips the two leaflets of the mitral valve and reduces the leakage thereby restoring the normal blood flow through the heart. The procedure was successful and was done by the team of Senior Interventional Cardiologists consisting of Dr. Uday B. Khanolkar, Sr. Consultant - Interventional Cardiology, Dr. Bagirath Raghuraman, Sr. Consultant - Interventional Cardiology and Heart Failure and Dr. Sanjay Mehrotra, Sr. Consultant - Interventional Cardiology.

The patient was up within 6 hours of the procedure with significant improvement of his symptoms. Post procedure echo also showed only mild mitral regurgitation.
